DAILY PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON, JAN. 10, 1834.

THE REMOVAL OF THE DEPOSITS.—This high handed measure seems to meet with almost universal condemnation to the South. The Norfolk Herald expresses the belief, that there is not in that city a single individual, whether Jackson or anti Jackson, Bank man, or anti Bank man, who approves of the removal of the deposits.

At the South, the question as to the merit or demerit of the Bank, is a secondary one, the arbitrary act of the President, in taking into his own hands the exclusive control of the whole public funds, and public revenue, is most prominent.—This is the alarming and pressing grievance—this is the matter which requires—urgently demands immediate remedy, and this is the point to which the attention of Southern men will first be directed.

When this is settled, the question of recharter may properly be discussed, and not before.

It is not now a question whether Congress will give the Bank another charter, but whether the Nation will preserve the faith pledged to the Bank, and whether the Bank shall enjoy the privileges for which it long since paid a liberal price.

CANAL COMMISSIONERS' REPORT.—Prior to the Christmas holydays, sundry resolutions were passed in the lower house of our legislature, calling upon the canal commissioners for their opinions in relation to several proposed improvements.—To these calls the following reply was made:

The Canal Commissioners respectfully submit the following Report:

A Navigable Feeder, from the Allegheny river, to intersect the Pennsylvania Canal at the northwest end of the aqueduct, near the mouth of the Kiskeminitas, would be a valuable improvement, for the following reasons:

1st. The canal has now to be fed with water from the Leechburgh dam in the Kiskeminitas (which dam is 23 feet high above low water mark) to Pittsburgh; being about thirty six miles in distance, including the two branches into the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers. In the months of August and September last, the Kiskeminitas river became so low, that, for a few weeks, a full head of water could not be maintained in the canal. What has happened, may again take place, during a very dry season; and that, too, at a time when an immense increase of trade will require a corresponding increase of lockage water. A feeder from the Allegheny river would not only release the Kiskeminitas from supplying thirty miles of the canal below the junction, but, in case of much leakage through the high dam at Leechburgh, it would assist the navigation on the same level for twelve miles above the junction;—hence, for this reason alone, such a feeder is very desirable.

2d. Such a feeder would be a guarantee against any very serious interruption of the trade on the main line, in the event of a failure of the great aqueduct over the Allegheny river, at the mouth of the Kiskeminitas. But, without the feeder, a breach of that aqueduct would render the seventy three miles of canal below Blairsville wholly useless for the great western commerce.

3d. The feeder would be from thirteen to sixteen miles long, depending upon the site chosen for a dam in the Allegheny river, and in either case would, with the pool of the dam, give an artificial navigation of about twenty miles. This improvement would accommodate some valuable salt works, and unite Kittanning, the county town of Armstrong county, and the surrounding country more closely with the Pennsylvania canal; and it would, also, be a link in the chain of future improvements for connecting the main line of canal with the French Creek division.

4th. Should the canal be continued from the present termination of the Western division, in Allegheny town, to connect with the Beaver division, this feeder will be indispensable. A survey was made by Mr. Gay, in 1828, of the Allegheny river from the mouth of French Creek to the mouth of the Kiskeminitas. Two sites were selected by him for dams in the river, one of which is near Kittanning, and the other one is three miles below that town. From the lower site, he located a canal on the east side of the river, about thirteen miles, to form a junction with the main line at the south east end of the large aqueduct. The estimate for erecting a dam in the Allegheny, and constructing a canal from thence to the aqueduct, was $250,208 80. As no satisfactory survey has ever been made on the west side of the river, where a navigable feeder should be constructed, the Canal Commissioners are unable to give an estimate of its cost.

A connection of the Western and Beaver Divisions of the Pennsylvania canal, has been an object of much solicitude.

Three modes have been proposed for forming the connection.

1st. By a rail road. This plan of uniting the two parts of the canal, is believed, by the Canal Commissioners, to be inexpedient, if not altogether inadmissable. Because the construction of a good rail road, with double tracks, will cost twice as much as a good canal. Because heavy articles, such as iron, coal, and agricultural productions, can be carried for half the sum (toll included,) on a canal, that their conveyance will cost on a rail road. And because it would subject the north western trade to a double transshipment, which an inability to secure a continuous water conveyance could alone justify.

2d. By improving the channel of the Ohio river, and employing steam boats for towing canal boats between Beaver and Pittsburgh.—This plan is at least plausible, and is recommended as being much cheaper than any other project heretofore suggested for accomplishing the desired object.

The Canals of Pennsylvania will be unobstructed by ice from nine to ten months of the year; and the Ohio river is at all times open during canal navigation. In ordinary seasons, steam boats of from 80 to 100 tons, are not prevented by low water more than from three to four months from visiting Pittsburgh. But in very dry years such as was last summer, west of the mountains there is about five months that such steam boats cannot run on the upper part of the Ohio river. Last summer a small steam boat rated at 45 or 50 tons burthen plied daily between Pittsburgh and Beaver, except about six weeks at the lowest stage of water, and she always took in tow a keel or Durham boat carrying from ten to twenty tons of loading. Hence, it is believed, by well informed persons that $60,000, expended in erecting brush wing dams in the Ohio, and clearing out bars at the ripples, would secure an uninterrupted navigation for canal boats, and that no other improvement is necessary. It is, also, worthy of remark, that the boat channel through almost all the ripples between Pittsburgh and Beaver is near the north shore of the river; and hence the formation of a towing path along the river bank has been proposed, as a means of enabling those who are engaged in canal transportation to use their own horses, instead of subjecting them to the necessity of employing a steam boat to tow them up the river.

3d. A canal from Pittsburgh to Beaver. Notwithstanding the cheapness and apparent feasibility of the project for improving the channel of the river and using steam boats, of constructing a horse path along the river bank, for towing canal boats. Yet the plan of uniting the Beaver and Western divisions by an independent canal, is, in the opinion of the Canal Commissioners, decidedly preferable. The great interests involved in the improvements already made, and in the contemplated extension of the Pennsylvania canal to Lake Erie, and a cross cut canal to unite those of Ohio and Pennsylvania, will, within a short period, require this link in the northwestern chain of communication to be completed.

Punctuality is said to be the life of business; but to be punctual to engagements requires certainty in the means by which those engagements are to be fulfilled. Therefore in a contest for the rich trade of the west and northwest, we should, if possible, avoid all risks or delays, and consequently broken voyages, that may arise from either floods or low water, by having continuous canals from the Allegheny mountain to Lake Erie, and to the Ohio river, below its principal obstructions. And hence the extension of the Western division of the canal, to Big Beaver, will become necessary.

On the 10th of January, 1827, an act was passed by the Legislature of the State of Ohio, entitled An act to incorporate the Pennsylvania and Ohio Canal Company, which act was approved and ratified by the Legislature of Pennsylvania, by an act passed on the 14th day of April, 1827.

The second section of the above act authorizes the corporation to "construct and forever maintain a navigable canal, &c., commencing at such suitable point on the Portage summit of the Ohio canal, as the Ohio Canal Commissioners shall direct, thence to the waters of the Mahoning river, and thence to meet or intersect the Pennsylvania or Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, at or near the city of Pittsburgh, in the State of Pennsylvania, with liberty, in case that either of the said canals shall be continued from Pittsburgh down the Ohio river, and up the valley of Big Beaver, towards Lake Erie, then to intersect either of said canals, constructed as aforesaid, at the most suitable and convenient point." And the 25th section of said act provides, "that if the corporation hereby created, shall not, within ten years, from the time of the taking effect of this act, construct, finish, and put in operation, the canal hereby contemplated, &c., then the said corporation shall thenceforth forever cease, and their charter be forfeited."

It will be readily admitted, by the advocates of internal improvements, that a union of the Ohio and Pennsylvania canals, as contemplated in the act incorporating a company to make the cross cut canal, will be highly beneficial to both States. But, by the terms of the act, their charter will be forfeited in ten years from the date of its ratification by the Legislature of Pennsylvania, unless they "construct, finish, and put in operation, the canal hereby contemplated," that is, as recited in the act, to a point "at or near the city of Pittsburgh;" and, hence, if they wish to save their charter, they must carry their canal to Pittsburgh, and occupy the very ground that is necessary for connecting our own Western and Beaver divisions of the canal.

The corporation are, however, at "liberty" to intersect the Pennsylvania canal "at the most suitable and convenient point," if it "shall be continued from Pittsburgh down the Ohio river, and up the valley of the Big Beaver, towards Lake Erie."—Pennsylvania has constructed a canal "up the valley of Big Beaver, towards Lake Erie," and it requires her to continue the Western division "from Pittsburgh down the Ohio river," to Big Beaver, to enable the corporation to proceed with their improvement, by releasing them from the obligation to extend their canal to Pittsburgh, which is about fifty miles from "the most suitable and convenient point" of connecting it with the Beaver division.

The act of the Legislature of Pennsylvania, ratifying the law of Ohio, which incorporates the Pennsylvania and Ohio canal company, provides —"That it shall not be lawful for said company to commence the said canal in Pennsylvania, until after the board of Pennsylvania Canal Commissioners shall have fixed the point for the eastern termination thereof, and the said Board are hereby authorized, on application made for that purpose by the said company, to determine and fix the point of termination of said canal, as may be deemed most advantageous to the public." But the act of Ohio had fixed the termination to be "at or near the city of Pittsburgh," unless "the Pennsylvania canal, or Chesapeake and Ohio canal shall be continued from Pittsburgh down the Ohio river." And hence the Canal Commissioners believe that this provision in the act of Pennsylvania is nugatory, for if the Commissioners fix the point of termination at any place short of a point "at or near the city of Pittsburgh," then the act of Ohio cannot "take effect and be in force," as it expressly makes the construction of a canal "from Pittsburgh down the Ohio river," a condition which we apprehend the Legislature of Pennsylvania had no power to alter, although they had a right to refuse their assent, or to make another termination of the Pennsylvania and Ohio canal a condition of that assent, which condition must be ratified by the Legislature of Ohio, before the canal "from Pittsburgh, down the Ohio" can be dispensed with.

In 1827, Doctor Whippo made a survey and estimate for a canal from Pittsburgh by the Ohio, Big Beaver, and Shenango, to Lake Erie, at the harbor of Presque Isle, in which he makes the distance from the Western division of the Pennsylvania canal in Allegheny town, to the mouth of Big Beaver, 25 miles, and 208 perches—and he estimates its cost of construction at $263,821 22.

A cross cut canal, from Akron, on the Ohio canal, along the valley of the Mahoning to the Pennsylvania canal, would, in the opinion of the Canal Commissioners, as already stated, be highly beneficial to both States. It would open a direct, safe, cheap, and expeditious channel for the citizens of Ohio to send their agricultural productions to a market on the seaboard, and enable them, in return, to receive merchandise from the east. It would open an extensive outlet for the salt, iron, marble, &c., of Pennsylvania, and greatly increase the trade and manufactures of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. It would, by the additional commerce thrown upon the Pennsylvania and Ohio canals, give activity to trade, employment to capital, and business to merchants, traders, and boatmen, and consequently it would stimulate and promote the great primary interest of agriculture; and it would contribute largely to swell the streams of revenue flowing into the coffers of the Commonwealth, from canal tolls, auction duties, bank dividends, shopkeepers' licenses, &c.

In a report made by the Canal Commissioners of Ohio to the Legislature, on the 17th of January, 1828, they remark, that, "through the northern part of the Ohio canal, the proposed Pennsylvania and Ohio Canal, and the Pennsylvania canal, a direct intercourse between the great lakes of the north west, on the one hand, and the Delaware and Chesapeake bays, and Atlantic ocean, on the other, will be carried on to an immense extent." And they add, "should the Pennsylvania and Ohio canal be completed, we shall see an active commerce carried on between the city of Pittsburgh, on the one hand, and the country bordering on the Ohio river, below the mouth of the Scioto, on the other, through that canal and the Ohio canal, during those seasons when the water in the upper part of the Ohio river is [illegible] for steam boat navigation." These enlightened views of the Ohio Canal Commissioners, [illegible] ago, has our cordial approbation. The extensive trade carried on, on the Ohio Canal, since it was finished, and the near approach to completion of the main line of the Pennsylvania improvements, has magnified the importance of the proposed cross cut canal, and rendered it an object of peculiar consequence at present.

Should the Western division be extended to Big Beaver, and the Beaver division be continued to the Ohio line, every ton of goods passing through the cross cut canal bound to or from Philadelphia, (except what would pass through the Union and Schuylkill canals,) would be carried four hundred and fifty miles on our state improvements, and pay from $7 50 to $12 50 toll into the State Treasury. Hence a company starting two boats from each end of the line daily, each carrying only 25 tons, would pay $1,000 of toll per day, or from $200,000 to $250,000 during the season of navigation every year. There are eight daily lines of boats regularly employed on the New York canal, between Albany and Buffalo. It is therefore thought that the above is a moderate estimate for the increase of trade that will be created by the construction of the cross cut canal.

In last september, while the board were examining the public works, in the western part of the State, two of the members went up the valley of the Mahoning, and along or near to the proposed rout for the cross cut, to Akron, on the Portage summit of the Ohio canal. And it is, in their opinion, the most favorable ground along the whole rout for constructing a canal that they have ever seen,—with any ample supply of water that can conveniently be brought to the summit level.

A survey was made by Sebried Dodge, Esq., in 1827, of so much of the rout of this proposed canal as is within the limits of the State of Ohio.

From which we learn that,

From Akron, on the Portage summit of the Ohio Canal, to the Pennsylvania line,	75 miles	292 perches.
Cuyahoga feeder, 7 m. 64 p.
3 other feeders, 4 64
	11	128

Aggregate length of canal and feeders,	87 miles	100 perches.

The estimated cost is as follows:

Cost of main line from Akron to the Pennsylvania line,		$683,762 69
Feeder, etc., from Cuyahoga,	$50,932 95
Three other feeders and reservoirs,	29,677 34
		80,610 29
Aggregate cost of canal, and reservoirs, and feeders,		$764,372 98

The whole amount of lockage is 343 feet.

The Board are not in possession of any survey or estimate of the proposed canal from the Ohio line to its junction with the Beaver division; but, from the character of the ground, they belive that its cost per mile will not exceed the average expense on the other part of the rout—the distance is said to be about twelve miles.

Impressed with the importance of this Canal, the Canal Commissioners have no hesitation in recommending the extension of the Beaver division to the Ohio line, at the expense and for the benefit of the Commonwealth, and thus avoid collisions that may arise from a corporation acting within the limits of our State, but under an authority beyond the control of the Legislature of Pennsylvania.

In answer to the resolution of the House requesting the opinion of the Canal Commissioners, as to the advantages the State would derive from the extension of the Pennsylvania canal to its original contemplated termination and connection with Lake Erie, at the bay of Presque Isle, the Board reply that they believe that the State would derive many advantages from such an extension of the canal.

The amount of commerce, on the lakes, is becoming immense; and is, from year to year, increasing with a rapidity that is truly astonishing. A few facts will illustrate its condition and importance:

In 1828, about four thousand five hundred tons was the aggregate burthen of all the vessels, of every description, navigating the lakes; but their aggregate burthen, at this time, amounts to fifteen thousand six hundred and ninety tons, including more than twenty steam boats—many of which are of the largest class, and all of which have constant and profitable employment.

In 1829, the amount of merchandise sent westwardly, from Buffalo, was seven thousand one hundred and fifty tons: but the estimated amount for the present season is twelve thousand tons.

The trade of the lakes has doubled within the last five years, and it will continue to increase in a compound ratio, as the western wilds, around the sweeping shores of the inland seas of North America, become settled, cleared, and cultivated. It has been estimated, that about sixty thousand emigrants have passed from Buffalo up the lakes, during the past season; and this tide of hardy, enterprizing citizens will continue to flow on until the present outlets of the lakes, through the New York and Welland canals, can no longer vent their surplus products, or return their supplies of merchandise.

From the rapidity with which the "great west" is settling, this trade, large as it is at present, must increase ten fold in a short period; but even a moiety of its present amount secured to Pennsylvania and her commercial cities would, we conceive, justify the Legislature in extending the canal to the bay of Presque Isle.

If the canal was made, the proximity of Pittsburgh to Erie would secure her an advantage over all domestic competition in vending her numerous manufactures; and Philadelphia could at all times compete successfully with the city of New York in bidding for the trade of the upper lakes. There are, however, still stronger inducements to make an exertion to secure this trade. It is well known that the accumulation of ice at the lower end of Lake Erie, in the spring, blocks up Buffalo harbor until the active business season of the year is far advanced; and that the want of sea room, near the lower end of the lake, renders navigation extremely dangerous during the prevalence of the fall winds; while the unrivalled harbor of Erie is easy of access at almost all times during the season of navigation: and hence, the Pennsylvania canal would enjoy a monopoly of the lake trade for two months in the year, and that too, at a time of its greatest activity.

In the month of September last, while the Canal Commissioners were on their western tour, one of the members passed along the contemplated rout for a canal from Newcastle to Conneaut lake, (another member of the Board had previously passed twice over the rout.) From Meadville, the Board went by the Waterford rout to Erie, to view the canal basin, constructing at that place, at the expense of the State, and they returned to Conneaut lake, by the Elk creek rout. The country, along each of the routs, presents the usual facilities for constructing a canal; and some of it, particularly along the Shenango, between Newcastle and Conneaut lake, is highly favorable. In 1827, a survey and estimate were made, by Dr. Whippo, for a canal from Pittsburgh, by the Beaver and Shenango, to Conneaut lake, from which we obtain the following result:

From the present termination of the improvement on the Beaver division, at the head of slack water, made by the Shenango dam, to Conneaut lake, is sixty four miles and eighty perches, with one hundred and forty eight feet of lockage, and is estimated to cost $392,796 74.

In 1[illegible] a survey and estimate were made, by Major D[illegible] Douglass, for a canal, from the present termination of the French creek feeder, at the south end of Conneaut lake, by the Elk creek rout, to the bay of Presque Isle, at the town of Erie; by which it appears that the length of the canal would be forty seven miles and one hundred and forty perches, and the lockage is five hundred and seven and a half feet. He estimated the cost of the improvement at $835,320 63.

In 1827, a survey and estimate were, also, made by Dr. Whippo, for a canal from the commencement of the French creek feeder, at Bemus' mill, above Meadville, by the Waterford rout to Erie harbor, which shows miles.	per.

The length of the main canal is	45	272
A feeder from French creek,	7	60
Aggregate length of canal & feeder,	53	12

It would have seven hundred and seventy three feet of lockage.

Estimated cost of canal,	$386,945 55
do. do. feeder,	29,065 14
Cost of canal and feeder,	$416,010 69

While on the subject of an extension of the Pennsylvania canal to the harbor of Erie, the Board cannot, in justice to themselves, avoid saying that there is some doubts still remaining on their minds about the supply of water being adequate to the demands of an active trade on either of the proposed routs, in a dry season, without the aid of reservoirs; and, consequently, the cost of construeting suitable reservoirs should be added to the estimated cost of the canal.

With respect to the several estimates in this report, the Board have to remark that those made by Doctor Whippo, contemplated locks to be built entire of wood, which were estimated at $150 per foot lift. This sum is entirely too low for such locks as the board believe ought to be constructed.

It has also been proved by experience, that the actual cost of constructing the public works of Pennsylvania, have invariably much exceeded the estimates which were made at the commencement of our improvement system. In several instances, the cost of construction has been double, and in some cases treble the amount of the original estimate. This has arisen from a desire, in the first instance, to build the works on the cheapest plan that would answer the purpose of navigation,—thus sacrificing safety and durability to a mistaken economy; and from the great number of public works in progress in the United States, which raised and kept up the wages of labor, and also from the engineers not making sufficient allowance in their estimates for the innumerable contingencies to which works of such magnitude, along our large rivers, are liable.—All which is respectfully submitted.

JAMES CLARKE,
President of the Board of Canal Commissioners.

Extract of a letter from a member of the Pa. Senate, to the Editor of the Franklin Repository, dated,

"HARRISBURG, Jan. 3, 1834.

"This being the day appointed for the meeting of the Legislature, (after the members taking their holidays' amusements,) the House was called to order at the usual hour, when only 35, out of 100 members were present. At the hour appointed for the meeting of the Senate, they were, by the Speaker, called to order, when only sixteen members were present,—it requiring seventeen to make a quorum: no business could be done; of course, both Houses had to adjourn until to morrow, when it is likely there will not be a quorum in the House of Representatives, and, of course, no business done. There will be 13 days lost, the cost of which is considerable, and often at the end of the Session, business is hurried through, without due consideration,—it is also the case when an adjournment takes place in the Session.

If this practice could be done away, it would be a reform which would be productive of good, both as it respects legislation, and a saving of the funds of the Commonwealth, which, in our present state, ought to be an object with those entrusted with the concerns of the Commonwealth."

From the New Orleans Daily News.

20TH DECEMBER.

Thirty years have now elapsed since New Orleans passed under the wings of the American eagle. The city then contained about 1,000 houses and eight thousand inhabitants; her commerce was comparatively unworthy of notice; the great staples which now load a thousand ships annually, did not, at that time, afford business for half a dozen merchants.

In thirty years, New Orleans has become the greatest mart in the world for cotton and tobacco, sugar, and molasses, flour, lead, and a long list of other items. Her banking capital is equal to one fourth of the whole circulating medium of the United States. The value of the trade of the twenty four States bears no greater proportion than four to one, when compared to this single city.

If these advances have been made in thirty years, under a variety of adverse circumstances, to what destiny may not this city attain, when population and the arts shall have improved the immense regions with which her trade is connected?

Thirty years ago, one hundred dollars would have purchased a piece of ground in one of our suburbs, that could not now be had for one hundred thousand; and thirty years hence will probably afford the same augmentation relative to the value of real estate in what is now called the outskirts.

There is no spot on the globe, where the rewards of industry are so ample, and the means of sustaining life so cheap. This at once accounts for the influx of strangers from other States in the Union, and nearly every country in Europe. Many of these strangers are unable to stand the ordeal of the climate, and few depart after amassing wealth; but the tide of new comers annually adds numbers to our resident population.

Much more might suggest itself, on the present anniversary, either in remembering the past, or anticipating the future. Let the people of New Orleans do but half of what may be termed their duty to themselves and to posterity, and the proudest cities in the world may envy their destiny.

PENNSYLVANIA LEGISLATURE.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

There was no business done in the House on Friday and Saturday, there not being a quorum. To day a great number of petitions were presented. In addition to the number of new banks asked for, petitions for banks at the following places were presented. At Greensburgh, in Greene county; Washington, Washington county; Hollidaysburg, Huntingdon county; Lewisburg, Mifflin county. A great many petitions for a law authorizing the call of a convention to alter the constitution were presented from all parts of the state.

BANKS.

Mr. Keating offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the several Banks of this commonwealth be, and they are hereby directed to return to this House, at as early a date as possible, a statement, under the oath or affirmation of their respective Cashiers, exhibiting their condition WEEKLY, from the first of January to the thirty first of December, 1833; in which statement shall be separately expressed the amount of bills discounted on personal security, on their own stock, or on other securities; the amount of domestic bills of exchange on hand; the amount of notes in circulation; the amount of specie on hand; the balances due to, or from other banks, designating the aggregate amount due to, or from other banks in the city and Liberties of Philadelphia; to or from State banks of this Commonwealth; to, or from the United States Bank and its several offices, respectively; the amount due to individual depositors; the amount due to the State of Pennsylvania and to the United States, on account of government deposits, together with such other information as may, in the opinion of the said Cashiers, be requisite to exhibit a correct statement of the weekly condition of their respective banks, during the said time.

PROXIES.

Mr. Goodman, of the county of Philadelphia, offered the following resolution which was laid on the table.

Resolved, That the several Banks in the commonwealth, be directed to furnish to this House, the number of votes given by proxy for Directors in each respectively, specifying the number given by the Directors themselves, and those given by the Stockholders, during the past year.

The Senate.—There was no quorum in the Senate on Friday. On Saturday the Senate proceeded to business. Nothing, however, of importance has yet been transacted.—Har. Intel.

And so much of said city as is included in the following boundaries, viz: Beginning at the foot of Wood street, on the Monongahela river, thence up the middle of Wood street to the middle of Diamond alley, thence along the middle of Diamond alley to the middle of Smithfield street, thence down the middle of Smithfield street to the middle of Fourth street, thence along the middle of Fourth street, and up the Farmers' and Mechanics' Turnpike Road, to the City Line, and thence by the same to the Monongahela river, thence down the same to the place of beginning, shall be one ward, to be called the South Ward; and so much of said city as lies east of the middle of Liberty Street, Diamond Alley and the boundaries of the South Ward, above named, shall be one ward, and be called the East Ward.

SECT. 2. And be it further ordained and enacted, That from and after the passage of this ordinance, the places for holding all general and city elections for the respective wards or districts, as described by the first section of this ordinance shall be as follows:—For the West Ward at the Court House, in the Diamond—For the South Ward at the house now occupied by William Alexander, at the corner of Smithfield and Third Streets—For the East Ward at the House now occupied by John Dully, at the corner of Wood and Fifth Streets—and for the North Ward at the House now occupied by Thomas Wynne, at the corner of Liberty and St. Clair Streets.

SECT. 3. And be it further ordained and enacted, That when each Election to be had and held, in pursuance of the aforesaid recited act of Assembly, for Mayor shall be closed and the number of votes for each candidate or person voted for shall be counted and ascertained, the persons authorized to hold and conduct such elections, or a majority of them, shall within twenty four hours thereafter, meet at the Court House in the Diamond, and shall then and there prepare and make, under their hands and seals the return thereof, containing the names of each candidate or person voted for Mayor, with the number of votes for each, and shall appoint one of their number whose duty it shall be to deliver a true copy of said return to the president of the Select Council, previous to the first meeting of the Select and Common Councils in joint assembly to choose city officers, and shall file the original returns in the office of the Clerk of the City Court, and the Select and Common Councils shall, in their joint meeting, proceed to examine such Election Returns, and to hear all remonstrances and objections to the same, and determine thereon, and to declare the person qualified, having the greatest number of votes, to be legally elected, and in cases where the election has been illegally or unfairly conducted or the number of illegal votes given may render the result doubtful, the councils shall have power to set the same aside and order a new election, giving notice thereof, as in the case of other special elections.

SECT. 4. Be it further ordained and enacted, That so much of any ordinance as is hereby altered and supplied, be and the same is hereby repealed.

J. APPLETON'S LATE IMPROVED

WASHING MACHINE.

THIS valuable improvement has been preferred by all who have used it to any other machine of the kind yet offered to the public.—It is expeditious, without injuring the clothes washed, as will be seen in the certificates below. All those who wish to save labor in washing, will please to call and see the operation, at the Masinon House, corner of Wood and Fifth streets. Machines, and the right of counties for sale—Machines 12 dollars—and at any persons service for trial. Dec. 31, 1833.

We have had in use Appleton's Patent Washing Machine, and do not hesitate to say that it is preferable to any that we have seen or used. A woman can wash as much in one day, with the machine, as she could in three by the hand, and only half the soap is necessary. We think it clears the clothes better than hand washing, without injury to them. We have also used Barnes' Patent Steam Washing Machine, called Peg Machine, but give Appleton's the preference. It washes cleaner and faster; therefore we recommend Appleton's Machine to the public in general.

Lucy Higginbotham, Robert Poore, | Elizabeth McKim.

We have in use Appleton's Patent Washing Machine. It is so simple in its construction that it may be used by any unskilful hand, and we do recommend it as a great saving of time and labor.

Edmund Henderson, A. Robinson, George Greenhow, | M. Gretter, James Fisher, Isaac White.

Hamilton County Agricultural Society.

It is hereby certified, that the Judges, appointed by the Hamilton County Agricultural Society, for the exhibition, held at Mill Creek, on the second of October, 1833, having awarded that Appleton's Washing Machine, submitted to the Society, on trial, appeared to their satisfaction to be of utility as a labor saving machine in domestic economy—they unhesitatingly recommend it to their fellow citizens—in testimony whereof, this Certificate is given. FAIRBANK'S PLATFORM SCALES.

THESE scales are constructed upon an improved principle; are fitted up with great care by the manufacturers, and warranted to weigh with accuracy from half a pound to 12,000. Being placed in, and forming part of, the floor, the process of weighing is performed with ease and facility, while the space they occupy may be improved as a passage way or for other purposes.

The construction of these scales is such that they are little liable to derangement of wear, and their perfect operation will be guaranteed for any reasonable length of time.

The usual objection, that a new method of weighing cannot be safely entrusted to unskilful hands, is obviated by the use of the improved BALANCE, concerning which are the following remarks in the Journal of the Franklin Institute, of the state of Pennsylvania, for the promotion of the Mechanic Arts, for June, 1833. (Edited by Thos. P. Jones, M. D., late Superintendent of the Patent Office, at Washington, Professor of Mechanics in the Franklin Institute, &c.

"The Messrs. Fairbanks, some time since, obtained a patent for a Platform Weighing Machine, and this mode of adjuating and graduating the Beam of the Balance, and the weights, was devised by them with a view to its employment with the before mentioned machine. We have had an opportunity of examining one of their balances, and have been much pleased with it: this examination, however, was not necessary to the conviction that it possesses a just claim to the character of a real improvement, the whole arrangement being so simple as to enable any person to perceive that it is well adapted to the purpose contemplated, that of facilitating the business of weighing, and more especially of heavy articles."

The subscriber, as Agent, will receive orders for the above Scales, which will be made in this city to order. They can be seen at his Warehouse, No. 84, Front street.

DOCTOR ROBERT'S

☞WELCH MEDICAMENTUM.☜

FOR the cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Jaundice, Cholic, Fever and Ague, Dysentery, Headach, Loss of Appetite, Flatulence, Hypochondria, Hysterics, Dropsical Complaints, and Heartburn, It also prevents all Bilious disorders, and removes habitual Costiveness, Asthma, Strangury, Gravel, Rheumatism, Gout, and Impurities of the Blood.

A person who uses this Medicamentum will not require the use of the lancet, or any means of the healing art. It restores and revives the animal spirits, invigorates the system, removes nervous tremors, obtunds rheumatic and anthritic pains, and prevents their return. It cleanses the stomach of all morbid humors, which cause indigestion, acidities, headach, and lowness of spirits; cures all bilious disorders, and all cholics of the stomach and bowels, almost immediately; inspires cheerfulness; gives comfort to the dropsical; takes away palpitation of the heart; gives circulation to the blood; restores bloom to the sallow or sickly cheek, and plumpness to the meagre habit; purges without pain, and banishes all cause of fever of every kind. It acts on the stomach, that great reservoir of the human system, a diseased state of which causes all diseases. No alteration in the usual habits of life is required, but the abstaining from distilled ardent spirits.

CERTIFICATE,

From Rev. Derick Lansing, D. D., Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Utica.

UTICA, Jan. 6, 1830.

To Dr. Hitchcock.—Dear Sir: I have always been one of the number of those who have placed little confidence in nostrums or specifics, and for this reason, although I saw your advertisement of the Welch Medicamentum, I could not bring my mind to consent to use it. My sufferings, from indigestion, during the past summer, were so severe, as materially to affect my comfort, and my capacity for usefulness. I have reason to thank you, sir, that, on hearing of the state of my health, you kindly sent me your Medicamentum. I have taken it faithfully, and with entire success. I have not been visited with one of those turns of distress, which before were weekly periodical, since I began to take your valuable medicine. Could I receive the same relief which I have hitherto experienced, on condition of taking it for life, I should cheerfully comply with such condition. Your's, very truly, D. C. LANSING.

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC ELIXER.

ONE of the most agreeable and efficacious Medicines ever discovered for the permanent cure of those chronic states of derangement of the stomach, constituting that miserable disease called Dyspepsia.

The basis of this Elixer s vegetables, and perfectly innocent in its operation; it destroys that sour state of the stomach, the instant it is taken, and stops the morbid secretion, by giving strength to the muscular fibre of that important organ, by which means the peristaltic motion of the intestines is increased, and the costiveness obviated; a new action is given to the system, which puts an end to a train of distressing nervous sensations.

Another form of the disease in which the Elixer is admirably calculated to relieve, is the decline of fever, where the stomach will not bear the ordinary strengthening medicines indicated in such cases, it has the surprising effect of giving vigor, and restoring the natural secretions of the body, without increasing the febrile state. Not the least danger is to be apprehended from exposure to cold, while under the use of this medicine, nor will it interrupt necessary employment of the patient a single hour.

☞A number of cases of cures performed by the Anti-Dyspeptic Elixer in the vicinity of Pittsburgh can be given.

GEO. W. CARPENTER'S

COMPOUND SYRUP OF LIVERWORT,

A SAFE and Valuable Medicine for Coughs, Spitting of Blood, Consumption, and Liver Complaints.

Most of the medicines made use of for the above diseases are of a stimulating nature, composed generally of Resins and Balsams, in alcoholic solutions, which, although sometimes giving temporary relief, in almost every instance where they are freely used, aggravate the disease, and reduce the strength of the patient.

This article possesses superior advantages over these preparations, its action being of a tonic, invigorating and strengthening nature, thus overcoming the disease by promoting expectoration, and gradully increasing the strength of the patient, and thus, without being attended with any unpleasant effects: it also agrees with the stomach, in a cases, and is a pleasant medicine to take.

PATENT PLANING MACHINE.—The right to use this valuable machine, invented and patented by William Woodworth, and known as Woodworth's Patent Planing Machine, may be obtained on application to the subscriber for the counties of Allegheny, Butler, Beaver, Washington, Green, Fayette, Somerset, Cambria, Indiana, Jefferson, Clearfield, M'Kean, Warren, Venango, Mercer, Crawford, and Erie, in the State of Pennsylvania. That part of Maryland lying west of the Blue Ridge; all that part of Virginia lying west of the Blue Ridge, except the county of Ohio. The whole of the state of Ohio except the counties of Hamilton, Butler, and Montgomery. The whole of the state of Kentucky, except the counties of Jefferson, Boone, Oldham, Gallatin, and Campbell. The whole of Indiana, except the counties of Floyd, Clark, Jefferson, Dearborn, and Switzerland. The whole of the state of Illinois, and the territory of Michigan. Rights to use the machine in that part of the United States, named above, will be sold by the single county or in larger districts. As it is presumed that no one will purchase without seeing the machine at work, a description of it is deemed unnecessary. Should any person, however, wish to purchase, and find it inconvenient to visit the places where it is in operation, a machine will be furnished, warranted to plane, tongue and groove, and bring to an exact width and thickness, a white pine board of 12 feet long, and of any width from 1 to 14 inches, in one minute and ten seconds, or an oak board of the same dimensions in 2 minutes and 10 seconds. Machines may be seen at work in the cities of New Orleans, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and others at the south and east, at Wheeling, Virginia, and at the saw mill of Messrs. Irwin & Herron, in this city.

Persons desiring to purchase will have the certificates of scientific and practical men who have seen it at work, in the different places in which it has been put up, forwarded to them. They give their opinion as to the great value of the invention, state the time they have seen boards dressed by this machine, and describe the quality of the work as compared with that performed by hand labor.
